

The SIPLACE team is active in environmental protection and expects the same from its suppliers

The stipulations in the REACH Regulation (EC) No. 1907/2006 and the RoHS Directive 2011/65/EU including any relevant national legislation implementing the Regulation/Directive must be fully observed by suppliers insofar as the products being supplied, including any packaging, are subject to the Regulation/Directive. In particular, the supplier must provide the customer with the necessary information and documentation in full and in good time. The only occasion on which this does not apply is if the stipulations mentioned above are not mandatory and deviations have been explicitly agreed with the customer. If any products supplied by the supplier, including any packaging, do not conform to these stipulations, the supplier must inform the customer of this in writing without delay, and at the latest prior to delivery.
